THE SUN was barely up Saturday when the Seven Mile Bridge Run got underway (above), but it was bright — and hot — when overall women's winner Julie Coleby (top right) and wheelchair division winner Ted Bridis (lower right) crossed the finish line. Bridis was the only wheelchair competitor, finishing in 25 minutes, 53 seconds. Coleby was timed at 40:14.

resident added an international flavor to his year's competition, as did the pair who came from Tokyo.

"It was fantastic. Anything that comes off with no major injuries to anyone, whether it's a runner or volunteer, is great," she said.

And considering more than 400 volunteers helped, making for close to 2,000 people being involved in the race — not including spectators — that's a considerable accomplishment.

One runner came from as far away as Durham City, England and another pair came from Tokyo.

Although Florida was the most widely represented area, there were several other states who had runners entered: Maryland, Alabama, Georgia, Ohio, New Jersey, Virginia, Wisconsin, Connecticut, North Carolina, Illinois, California, Texas, Washington, South Carolina, Colorado, New York, New Mexico, Missouri, Massachusetts, Indiana and Tennessee.

Following are the official results. And remember, next year's run is less than a year away.
